(Unceded Algonquin Territory, Ottawa, August 12, 2024)—Nature Canada's Women for Nature are proud to celebrate Percy Ager of Cape Breton, Nova Scotia, as a recipient of our 2024 Young Nature Leaders Grant. This grant encourages, fosters and nurtures youth to demonstrate their leadership in nature.

Percy will be hosting seed saving workshops, creating an accessible and inclusive agro-tourism space, and bringing together communities that they are a part of: Black, Queer, women, youth, Disabled, Neurodivergent.

Percy shared, "We believe the practice of seed saving is an incredible opportunity to ensure our communities have the skills and knowledge to be good stewards of the land - which in turn gives us an opportunity to actively participate in the only viable way forward on this planet. We're so excited to host seed saving workshops on our farm in our pollinator meadow to help create more pollinator habitats, and people who support them, in our community".

Percy is a Young Nature Leader alongside these other amazing local youth leaders:

- Humza Hassan, Toronto, ON;
- Luke Nguyen, Ajax, ON;
- Abinaya Gnanasekar, Oakville, ON;
- Samuel LeGresley, Greater Moncton, NB;
- Hayley De Turse, Peterborough, ON

"It brings me great hope and happiness to see these young people taking leadership in their local communities to help and heal nature," says the Honourable Rosa Galvez, Honorary Chair of Nature Canada's Women for Nature program. "Through their actions and advocacy, young Canadians across the country are creating a cleaner and brighter tomorrow," declares Galvez.

The Young Nature Leaders Grant began in 2017 to empower youth to develop and implement a youth-led, community-based project centered around nature and sustainability in Canada. This year's recipients join an impressive list of previous recipients with unique and complementary ideas.

About Nature Canada

Nature Canada was founded in 1939 because of the passion and initiative of Mabel Frances Whittemore, a teacher and nature lover whose main goal in life was to share her passion for nature with others. Today, Nature Canada represents a network of over 175,000 members and supporters and more than 1200 nature organizations across the country. Over the past 85 years, Nature Canada has helped protect more than 110 million acres of parks and wildlife areas in Canada and countless species that depend on this habitat and connected hundreds of thousands of Canadians - especially children - with nature through its activities.
